Improving Health – Saving Lives

Welcome back Jane Jacobson, ARNP

In a flashback to the “Welcome Back Kotter” TV series, FCPHD Board of Trustees invites the community to join us in welcoming back ARNP Jane Jacobson as the newest member to our growing team of medical providers in January. For those of you that cannot get the lyrics of the title song out of your head now, no apologies!

We are very excited for Jane’s return to us, especially based on her success with FCPHD during her three years, October 2013 to October 2016, with us. During her previous service with us, Jane made great progress in establishing a client base in the Curlew community while also fulfilling the district’s medical service contract with the Curlew Job Corp. Her return, after a brief stint on the western side of our state, will increase our clinic to a solid four full-time Primary Care Providers (PCPs).

Jane’s academic studies in the health field include earning a Bachelor of Science from the University of St. Francis in Joliet IL, the Illinois Masonic Medical Center School of Nursing in Chicago IL. In August of 2013 she earned her Master of Science in Nursing (MSN) in Family Nurse Practitioner (FNP) from Gonzaga University in Spokane WA. After completing her Gonzaga University degree, licensing and practice certification requirements, she began her ARNP practice with FCPHD.

In the current health-care difficult recruiting and retention environment for PCPs in rural frontier areas like ours, we again request that you join us in extending a warm “Welcome Back Jane” as a terrific addition to our provider staff as we continue moving forward on our mission “To strengthen the health and well-being of our community through partnership and trust.”
